Fire Causes Loss of Over Half a Million—Analysis of the Figures.

Chicago, July 6.—The grim statistics of the Fourth of July casualties collected and revised up to last midnight, show that 71 persons were killed and 2,624 injured as a result of Saturday's celebration of the Fourth of July in the United States.

This breaks all records for deaths since 1899. The number of deaths this year reported up to noon today is 23 more than at the same time last year. In 1905 50 were dead at the same hour. The number of injuries, however, is 1,283 less than in 1907, and is the smallest number since 1901, when 1,803 persons were hurt. This is regarded as an indication that the agitation for a safe Fourth is having its effect. An analysis of the figures show the following:

DEAD—71.
By fireworks and resulting fires.. 47
By cannon .. 3
By firearms .. 16
By gunpowder .. 6
By toy pistols .. 2
By runaways .. 5

GARBER TO BE OHIO'S NATIONAL COMMITTEEMAN

Colorado Springs, Colo., July 6.—The Doughty Ohio special train, with 12 cars, the largest train through here for the Denver convention, arrived at 6:30 last night, seven hours late.

A caucus on the train resulted in Tom L. Johnson's defeat for re-election as national committeeman from Ohio. The result of the vote was: Garber 26 votes; Johnson 6.

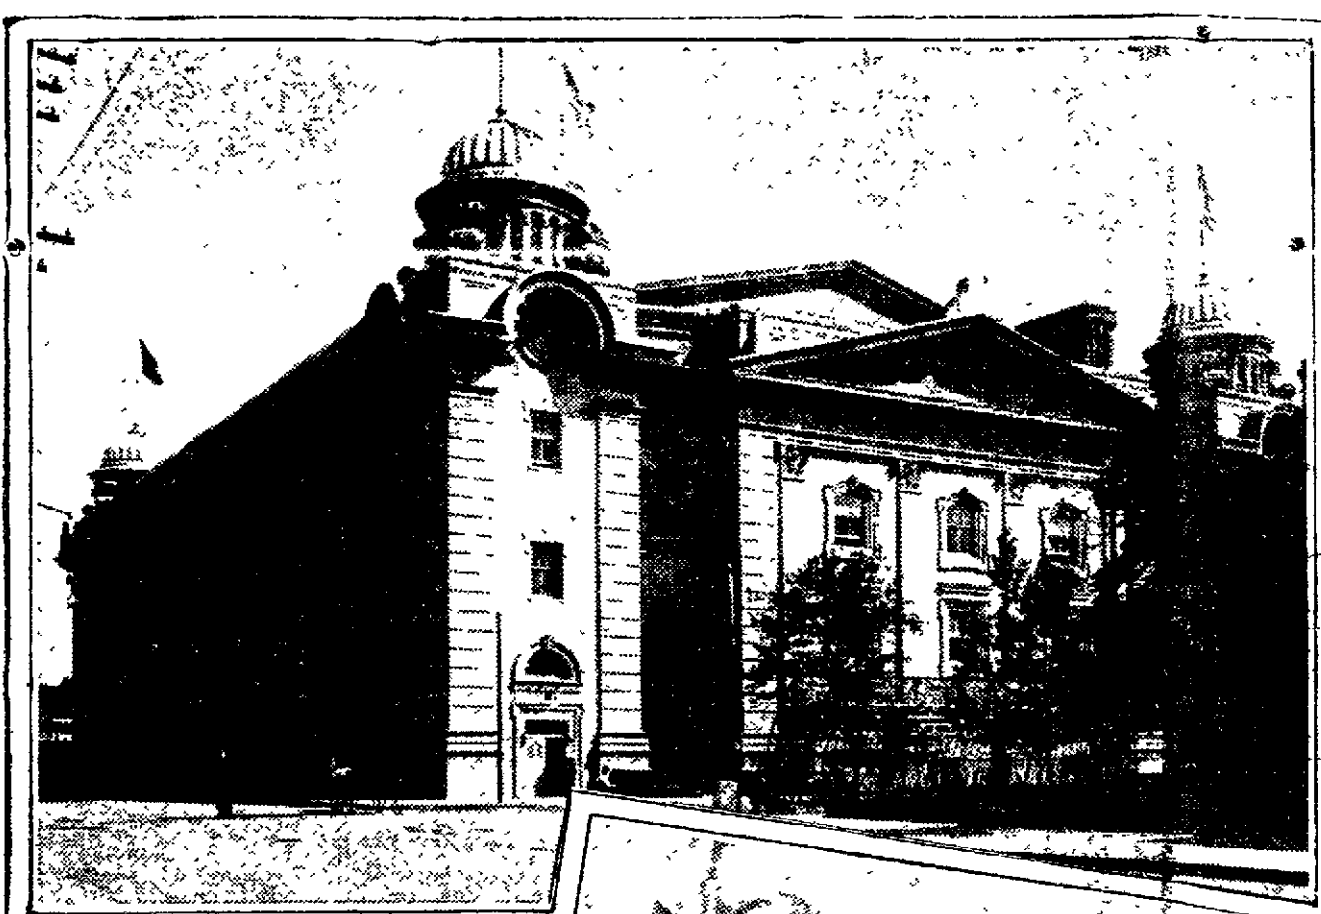

Max Goldsmith will be the Ohio member of the committee on credentials. No selection for member of the committee on resolutions was made, although Will S. Thomas of Springfield will be selected.

COSSACKS PUT REBELS TO DEATH

St. Petersburg, July 6.—The slaughter by the Shah's Cossacks in Tabriz continues notwithstanding that the revolutionists have surrendered. The Cossacks are hunting down isolated bands of reformers and putting them to death.

"Here's where we part company," remarked the comb and brush as they were placed in the guest chamber.

LATEST FROM THE DENVER CONVENTION

AUDITORIUM IN DENVER
WHERE CONVENTION WILL BE HELD

Denver, July 6.—In a nutshell this is what the Democratic national convention is doing. Before the formal opening of the convention the national committee is thrashing out contests. The executive council of the A. F. of L. is framing up planks for the platform. Johnson's managers say he has no chance to win. A caucus of the New York delegation to declare for Bryan and name a favorite for vice president is being held. A committee on arrangements has decided to exclude "Merry Widows" from the convention hall. John Mitchell says he would not accept the vice presidential nomination. Arrival of Tammany Hall in special trains. State delegations are pouring in. Lid lifted by Mayor Speer. Name of Congressman Ollie James of Kentucky added to 57 varieties of vice presidential candidates. A strong bunch in his favor is said to have come from Lincoln. Theodore Knappin, assistant manager of the Johnson campaign, says the managers of the Minnesota governor know he can't win, but he will be placed in nomination to put him in line for 1912.

Mayor Johnson of Cleveland, national committeeman, has been defeated by delegates from his own state, and the next national committeeman from that state will be Harvey Garber. The Ohio delegation, on its arrival today, announced its decision and showed absolutely that the men who forced the nomination of Judson Harmon for governor are still absolute in party affairs. The decision was reached at a caucus on the Clarke Doughty special train en route here, and 27 of the 32 delegates on board pledged themselves to vote for Garber against Johnson. There are 46 delegates from Ohio and it is declared today that Johnson will not receive 15 votes.

People here who are not delegates but merely interested spectators find some amusement and considerable food for thought in drawing the "deadly parallel" between the situation at this Democratic convention and that which prevailed at the Republican convention at Chicago.

In the case of each convention there was one dominant, masterful spirit recognized. At Chicago it was of course that of Roosevelt. Here it is Bryan's convention. Every prominent Democratic leader felt it necessary to stop off at Lincoln to get his cue. Mr. Bryan is a greater master of the situation here than President Roosevelt ever thought of being over the Republican hosts at Chicago. Judge Gray is the Fairbanks of the Democratic situation here. He could have the place if he wished it. This position is "in the air" with the Empire

The sub-committee in the New York contest today decided in favor of seating the Murphy delegates.

The Pennsylvania delegation today after a bolt by the Kerr contestants, elected Col. James M. Guffey as chairman of the delegation and member of the national committee.

BITTEN BY A MAD DOG

Saturday about 3 p. m. a young dog belonging to a family named Holmes on Poplar avenue, went mad and bit Arthur Wolford, of 75 Poplar avenue, Mary Hanley of 82 Poplar avenue, and a woman that was passing along the street. The dog later was killed by an officer.

The father of the Wolford boy starts with his son tonight for Chicago to have the Pasteur treatment administered.

HEAT WAVE KILLS TWELVE

Chicago, July 6.—Chicago's second heat wave this season has killed 12 persons in the last 24 hours. Of these seven sudden deaths are directly attributed to heat and five to suicide, indirectly attributed to the heat. At noon today street thermometers registered 90 degrees.

SYMPTOMS OF RABIES

A dog belonging to Mr. Fred Gottle of Clinton street, showed symptoms of rabies on the Fourth, and about noon it ran wildly about snapping at objects. The dog ran up, on the porch of Mr. Ned Sherburne's residence, corner of Clinton and Locust streets, then darted in the coal shed at the rear of the house. The owner seeing that the dog was already dangerous, got a revolver and despatched the animal. The dog, so far as is known, was not bitten by any other dog, nor did it bite any person.

CELEBRATION AT GRATIOT.
Attorney Phil B. Smythe delivered the annual Fourth of July address at the Gratiot celebration Saturday. The address was well received and a big celebration was held, the program consisting of music and addresses. Congressman Win. A. Ashbrook was to have been on the program, but was suffering from a boil on his arm and could not attend.

The campaign he is one sort of transparency.

Fighting Has Been Going on for Several Days and Many Public Buildings are Damaged.

Buenos Ayres, July 6.—Advices received here state that the revolutionists have been successful in Paraguay and that a new government has been established. These advices have been confirmed by a dispatch received by the minister of foreign affairs from the Argentine legation at Asuncion, officially notifying the minister that the revolutionary party had succeeded in overthrowing the Paraguayan government and that several of the Paraguayan ministers of state had taken refuge in the legation. The revolutionists have appointed as president Dr. Emeliano Gonzales Naveiro. He held the office of vice president in the government which has just been ousted.

Unofficial dispatches say the cabinet includes Manuel Gondra, the Paraguayan minister to Brazil; Dr. Eusebio Ayala, Dr. Alvaro Jara, Dr. Adolfo Rigulante and Dr. Manuel Franco.

These represent a combination of the two most powerful parties, the Liberal and Colorado, and it is believed that their appointment will assure early peace to the country.

The members of the former government, who included Manuel Benitez minister of the interior; Cecilio Baez, foreign affairs; General Rios, war; Adolfo, finance; and Carlos Isasi, min-

COUNT AND COUNTESS MENNO FREDERICK LIMBERG STIRUM

Detroit, Mich., Jul. 6.—Another international marriage was celebrated here when Miss Mary Joy Newland became the bride of Count Menno Frederick Limberg Stirum. The ceremony was performed at the residence of the bride's sister, Miss Howard Graves Meredith, No. 659 Jefferson avenue, the Rev. S. E. Marquis, dean of St. Paul's cathedral, officiating. It was witnessed by the member, of the family, only, and was followed by a reception for about 150 of the intimate friends of Miss Newland.

The bride was unattended, but the Count had for his best man Baron von Stumm, third secretary of the German legation at Washington.

ster of justice, it is understood, have taken refuge in the foreign legations. Fighting has been proceeding in the streets of Asuncion for several days, and many of the public buildings have been seriously damaged. Estimates of the killing and wounding has been exaggerated, and it is now believed the number will not exceed 500.

ATTENTION GINSENG HUNTERS.

Hamden Junction, July 6.—George Martin of Berlin Cross Roads, while picking blackberries stumbled on a projecting root of ginseng, which proved to be the largest ever found in this section, measuring 1 inches in length and weighing 19 ounces. When dry, ginseng brings $6 per ounce on the market, being highly prized for its medicinal qualities. Martin disposed of his rich find to a local dealer, realizing a handsome sum for his day's outing.

FROM GERMANY TO CONVENT.

Wapakoneta, July 6.—After a long trip by land and sea, 21 young girls from Germany, arrived at Maria Stein, Mercer county, to secure religious training in this country. The girls came to America in company with a sister of the Convent at Maria Stein, where they will be fitted to take the vows of sisterhood.

POISONED BY ICE CREAM.

Zanesville, July 6.—A score of people were made violently ill July 4 by eating ice cream while taking an outing on the steamer Valley Gem. Two of them, Jessie Lutz and Essie Dutro, are in a precarious condition. Seven of the excursionists were removed to hospitals in ambulances upon the arrival of the boat here.

Chicago, July 6.—Landing at 5 o'clock last evening near West Sheffield, Quebec, the balloon Fielding-San Antonio won the international championship race over the other eight competitors, which started from the grounds of the Aeronautique club of Chicago on the evening of July 4.

All of the balloons, with their freight of 18 human souls, are safely back to earth. Several of the aeronauts, notably the two who dangled beneath the "Columbia," were injured in landing. Captain Peterson had a rib broken, and both he and Charles H. Leichter were cut on a barb wire fence when they came down in a farmer's field at Clinton, Ont.

Some of the balloons had narrow escape from falling into Lake Michigan, and the experience of the French entry, Ville de Dieppe, constitutes one of the most thrilling chapters as yet written in the history of aerial travel. Col. A. E. Mueller and George Schoeneck, the aeronauts who sailed in the "Ville de Dieppe" from Chicago Saturday, came to earth near South Haven, Mich., during the night, after having been dragged for over 10 miles along the surface of Lake Michigan. They saved themselves from a worse fate only by throwing overboard every moveable thing in the balloon basket and taking to the rigging. They returned to Chicago early Sunday morning by train.

The aeronauts were not injured, but were soaked to the skin and a sudden ascent to a height of 7,000 feet chilled both occupants of the balloon.

Schoeneck is only 17 years old, and it was his first ascent. Colonel Mueller is an aeronaut of experience, and that there was no loss of life was due entirely to his coolness and ability.

The "United States" landed a mile east of Pinkerton Station, Bruce county, Ontario, at 8:30 o'clock. The "Columbia" also crossed into Canada, and while C. H. Leichter and Captain Martin Peterson managed to leave the car near Clinton, Ontario, they were bruised and cut by being thrown into barbed wire fences and trees and both required surgical attendance. Captain Peterson suffered a broken rib and a deep cut on his hand. Mr. Leichter's injuries consisted of lacerations.

The occupants of the Cincinnati saw the disaster to the Ville de Dieppe, and landed in Covert, Mich., in order to send a message to the life-saving stations, notifying them of the accident Leslie Haddock and George (Continued on Page 5, 3d Col.)

AFTER A. PETOFI BY LOUISE SOUVAN

IN the wide Hungarian country there was once a corn field, and in it was lying a little boy whom a raven mother had brought there. But God sent His angel, a mermaid peasant woman, to the corn field. She found the little babe, hugged and kissed the sweet little face with the big, black eyes and took it home with her.

"Pat," the peasant woman said to her grumbling husband, "Heaven denied us children of our own, but gave us a strange child in our corn field. I think if we keep this boy he will become a fine Gulyas (cowboy) or a sheep shepherd."

The peasant was prepared to contradict her for about an hour, but in the very next minute he was silenced by his good wife with her quick tongue. The little boy remained in the house, and because he was found in the corn field he was christened Janos Kukoritzsa (corn). Through the window of the Tanya (country house of the plain) was blowing an ocean of light, and the air filled with the scent of the flowers of the Pusztas floated over the cradle. When little Janos had outgrown the cradle he played with the delicious smelling Kalmus, the white and yellow sea roses from the pond. Janos laid away the flowers and took instead the crook, whistled to a shaggy dog and became shepherd for his stepfather.

The happy life on the Pusztas was to him like the juicy flesh of a melon that invigorates on a hot summer day. When Janos was grown up and supported himself his good stepmother died. The young shepherd shed bitter tears on her grave, as though they had buried his own mother, whom he never knew. It took a long time until he became calm again, but the healthy, well shaped Juhasz with the handsome brown face found a comforter, the beautiful blond Illuska, a poor orphan, who had suffered at the hands of a cruel stepmother. Fate brought these two equally fortunate souls together. They told each other their little pleasures and their great troubles, and the end was a great love.

One day Illuska came to see Janos on the Pusztas. She brought him a present, a bunch of feather grass that resembled the tail of the Paradise bird and by the Hungarians worn as an ornament upon the hat.

When they were sitting on the mound which Janos had made of the herbs of the plain, laughing and talking, while the sun was setting like a huge fire ball, suddenly Illuska's stepmother appeared behind the girl with a whip and cried: "So you will wash on the dry Pusztas. Instead of going to the brook? You ought to creep into the sand for shame! To sit with Juhasz and gossip on the deserted plain!"

Janos jumped to his feet as though she were a serpent and cried at the woman: "If you dare to touch the girl with your whip I will have you torn in pieces by my wolf hound!"

"But, mind you, half of your sheep have gone astray," muttered the old woman, and dragged Illuska home with her.

And truly Janos found only the smaller part of the flock, all the rest had run away while he was looking into the girl's beautiful eyes. Downhearted, he drove the remainder of the sheep to the village and was ready for the reproaches of his stepfather, who had already been informed by Illuska's stepmother of what had happened, and who was waiting for him at the stable door. He let the sheep pass by him, one after the other. Alas, they were soon counted.

"Where are the others? Get them at once or I will drive you from my home to-day!" cried the peasant, white with anger.

"Do it, because I was a bad shepherd," said Janos humbly, and went away at once. He wanted to go into the wide world, and he travelled over seven countries and seven villages.

On the way he met a regiment of Hussars, and for the first time since his separation from Illuska his heart leaped with joy. They were on the way to France to rescue her from the hands of the Turks. Of course, sober history knows nothing of this.

Ah, but Janos was a true Hungarian, with a heart always ready to fight against the old enemy and oppressor, the Turk, and soon he was sitting on horseback with his dolman (coat), proudly looking

OFF THEY WENT THROUGH THE AIR.

A SUPPOSIN' STORY

Supposin' wooden Indians Who stand by stores that sell Tobacco, papers and cigars Should start to run and yell, And rushing 'round with tomahawks Take all the chewing gum And chocolate from the slot machines Which left you children none!

Now, wouldn't it be mean indeed For Indians to show such greed?

Then s'pose they met your dear papa And started in for fair To have a little oldtime sport And scalp him then and there! But when he raised his hat And they beheld his shining pate, "Ki Yi!" they sung, "Big Indian stung. White man been scalped! Too late!"

How dreadful then to be a girl With long thick braids or hair in curl!

"White Man been scalped! Too late!"

Which left you children none.

S'pose with a yell they'd board the "L" And force the trains to stop, While every tired messenger Would quickly run and hop! Policemen, breaking all their clubs, Would call upon our troops, And even fireman, so brave, Would tremble at their whoops. Besides, how dreadful war would be With all our battle ships at sea!

You boys alone can save the town From wooden Indians fierce and brown.

If this should happen, let each boy Then paint his hands and face, And when he dons his Indian suit They'll think he's of their race. So put your eagle feathers on Of blue, and red, and brown, And as you swing your tomahawk Look very fierce and frown. Then offer with a whoop and yell To show them o'er the town.

If to the circus first you go They'll never leave the Wild West Show!

-IRENE ELLIOTT BENSON.

So put your eagle feathers on.

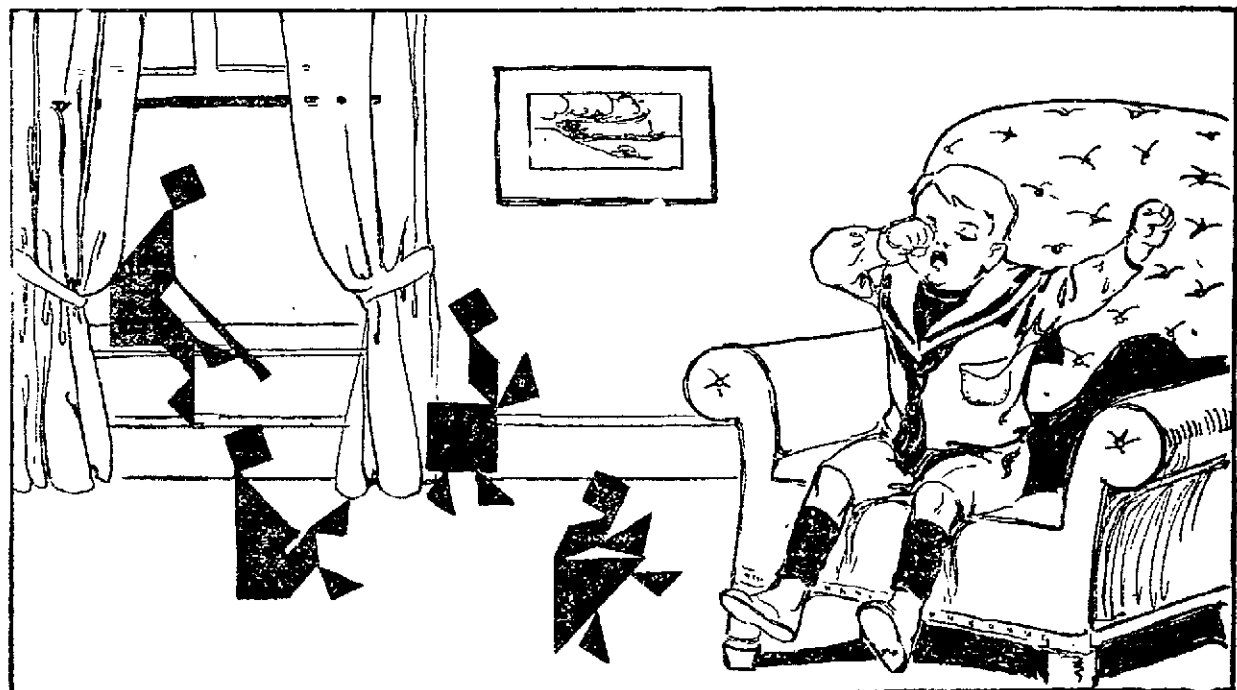

The ADVENTURES of the ANGLE PEOPLE BY ZULEIME AND MARIE ARMSTRONG

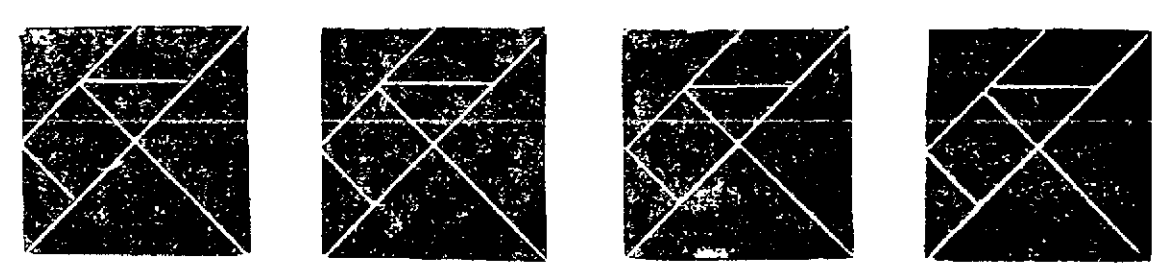

When the Angle People had mounted the 999th step and Grandpa was almost exhausted, a Benevolent Dragon appeared and carried them the rest of the distance. Galatea sat in a cosy seat and Teddie stood by her side looking as brave as Napoleon at St. Helena. Grandpa and Angelina rode on a silver platform with golden chains hung from Benevolent Dragon's Jaws.

Benevolent Dragon landed them near Pygmalion's home. A they counselled under a tree they heard a squirrel reading: "Walk three minutes to your right and five minutes to your left, then follow your noses."

And lo!—They found themselves at Pygmalion's window. They entered softly, Galatea first, then Angelina. Pygmalion did not awake until Teddie in his haste fell from the window, and, being wooden, he made a frightful noise. Pygmalion rubbed his eyes in his astonishment and shouted:—"Hurrah for my Uncle Bob and the Angle People!"

An Interesting Arithmetical Game

Here is an interesting arithmetical pastime for boys and girls. Perhaps you think you can only give the questions to some member of a large family, but it will work out quite as well for an only child, as will be shown later on. Let's suppose, to begin, that you question a boy who is one of a numerous flock. Say he has three brothers who are living and two who are dead, two sisters living and one dead. You do not know this, but you tell him you will give him full details as soon as he has worked out a little sum for you. Ask him to think of the number of brothers he has living (3). Double this number (6). Add 3 to it (9). Multiply this way:—The right hand figure of 9 by 5 (45). Add the number of living sisters (2)=47. Multiply it by 10 (470). Add the number of brothers and sisters who are dead (3)=473. Subtract 150 from the number obtained by the last addition and announce the final result. It will be 323. At once you tell him he has three dead brothers and sisters, two living sisters and three living brothers. The secret is revealed to you.

Now see how easily the problem works out for an only child. His living brothers are represented by 0, which doubled still gives 0. Add 3=3. Multiply by 5=15. Add the number of living sisters (0)=15. Multiply by 10=150. Add the number of brothers and sisters (0)=150. Subtract 150 from the result. He announces this result, and you tell him he has no brothers or sisters living or dead.

THE YOUNG MAGICIAN'S AFTER TEA ADVENTURES.

Did you ever go a-ridin' On a whale across the sea? Did you ever march a-stridin' As a robber bold an' free? Did you ever hear the chimin' Of a real, true fairy tune? Did you ever try a-climbin' To the Country of the Moon? No? Poo! I did!

Did you ever wear a toga In the Roman days of old? Did you ever kill an ogre? Did you ever dig up gold? Did you ever hear the tootin' Of the Bugle in the Fray? Did you ever start out shootin' Apaches by the way?

When I'm tired of boots an' spallies, When I've eaten all my tea, When Nurse's story tellin' Seems a sort of chore to me, I close my eyes an' say: "As quick as twinklin' And I don't know how, but right— I can go shootin' Apaches!"

Ship With No Upper Berths.

The new steamer Prinz Friedrich Wilhelm, which recently arrived at New York from Bremen by the new crew for the Imperial German cruiser Bremen, is the third largest liner of the North German Lloyd passenger fleet and is equipped with all the latest improvements for the comfort of ocean travelers. She is 613 feet in length, 68 feet beam, 42 feet depth of hold and 17,500 gross registered tonnage. She has accommodation for 425 first class, 329 second and 553 third class passengers and a crew of 401 hands. There are two innovations in the first class cabin. These are the practical elimination of the uncomfortable "upper" berths and "inside" cabins. There are a great many single rooms on the new ship, and in the double cabins the berths are at right angles to each other or side by side. The dining room seats 324 passengers, and the Vienna cafe in the promenade deck has an open air veranda at the after end which is fitted with easy chairs and teakwood tables so that passengers, protected by wind screens, may enjoy their coffee or light lunch in the open air in hot weather.

IN POLICE COURT.
The police worked overtime, from Friday night until the early hours of Monday morning before they succeeded in corralling the drunks who celebrated the Glorious Fourth. When noses were counted in police court Monday morning it was found that twenty intoxicated cases had been judged, many a number being ordered out of the city because of the overcrowded condition of the city bastille.

The case in police court against Grant Lees was continued by Mayor Atherton until afternoon at 2 o'clock. Lees is charged with carrying concealed weapons and shooting firearms in the city limits.

Friday night Lees claims he was annoyed by three men who followed him on the street and insulted two young ladies who were walking with him. In the struggle that followed, Officers Brooke and McClure ran from the patrol house and tried to separate the men.

Lees claims that he thought the officers were in the crowd which attacked him and that he reached behind and fired the revolver. Fortunately, the weapon contained no cartridges and the officer was not hurt.

Lees claims that he was endeavoring to frighten his assailants whom he had reasons to believe were trying to do him bodily harm. He has been released under bond in the sum of $100.

An East Newark saloonist was ordered before Mayor Atherton Monday morning on a charge of keeping open on Sunday. Numerous complaints had been made to the police about the place. The man pleaded guilty and was fined $25 and the costs and $10 was remitted, the balance being paid.

An Interesting Experiment

It will enable you to determine the value of P. & G. Naphtha Soap. Try it!

Make a strong suds of P. & G. Naphtha Soap and cold or lukewarm water.

Put into this all the dirty dish-cloths you have. Let them soak for an hour. If any dirt spots remain, rub them lightly with the soap. Remove the cloths. Rinse them in clear water. Hang them up to dry.

Look at them an hour later. They are as clean as when new—free from grease and without odor of any kind.

The point of this little experiment is this: If P. & G. Naphtha Soap will clean dirty dish-cloths quickly, easily and thoroughly, how much more quickly and easily will it clean bed-linen, table-cloths, pillow-cases, skirts, shirt waists and articles of a similar nature which are not, and need never be, one-tenth as dirty as the dish-cloths?

5 cents a cake; worth more.

We may soon expect to hear that prosperity is booming again; that is, those of us who are willing to believe reports from Republican sources.

The laboring men should not be disappointed with the Republican platform on government injunction. for the Republicans in congress have always refused to pass laws laboring men asked for, although pretending to favor the wage earners. The question is, will the Republican wage earners continue to vote the Republican ticket?

The ambition of former Governor Herrick to succeed either Mr. Foraker or Mr. Dick in the United States senate is to be fortified by a subsidized chain of newspapers. Mr. Herrick has already secured control of the Cleveland Leader and the Toledo Blade, and now has options on other papers throughout the state. Aided by his vast wealth and by a shrewd system of underground organization, he confidently expects to accomplish his purpose. It is understood that he has formed a working alliance with Millionaire Charles P. Taft, and each is to help the other in his struggle for togas now worn by Foraker and Dick. Such a union of millions has never before been formed in a single state for the requirement of senatorial seats.

A STUDY OF THE PLATFORM.

HOW ONE GAINS

Success in Money Matters—By the Ad Writer of the Buckeye State Building and Loan Company, Rankin Building, 22 West Gay Street, Columbus, Ohio.

EIGHTH WAY. By ascending the ladder of success one step at a time. Some men fail because they spread or expand too rapidly. "Little boats should keep near shore." One should go ahead very cautiously. Step by step ascend the ladder of success and your footing will be safe. Step by step has been achieved the success of The Buckeye, whose strength has steadily grown from year to year until it has become one of the leading financial institutions of Central Ohio.

AN EYE OPENER.

Chicago's City Electrician Can See Both Backward and Forward Now.

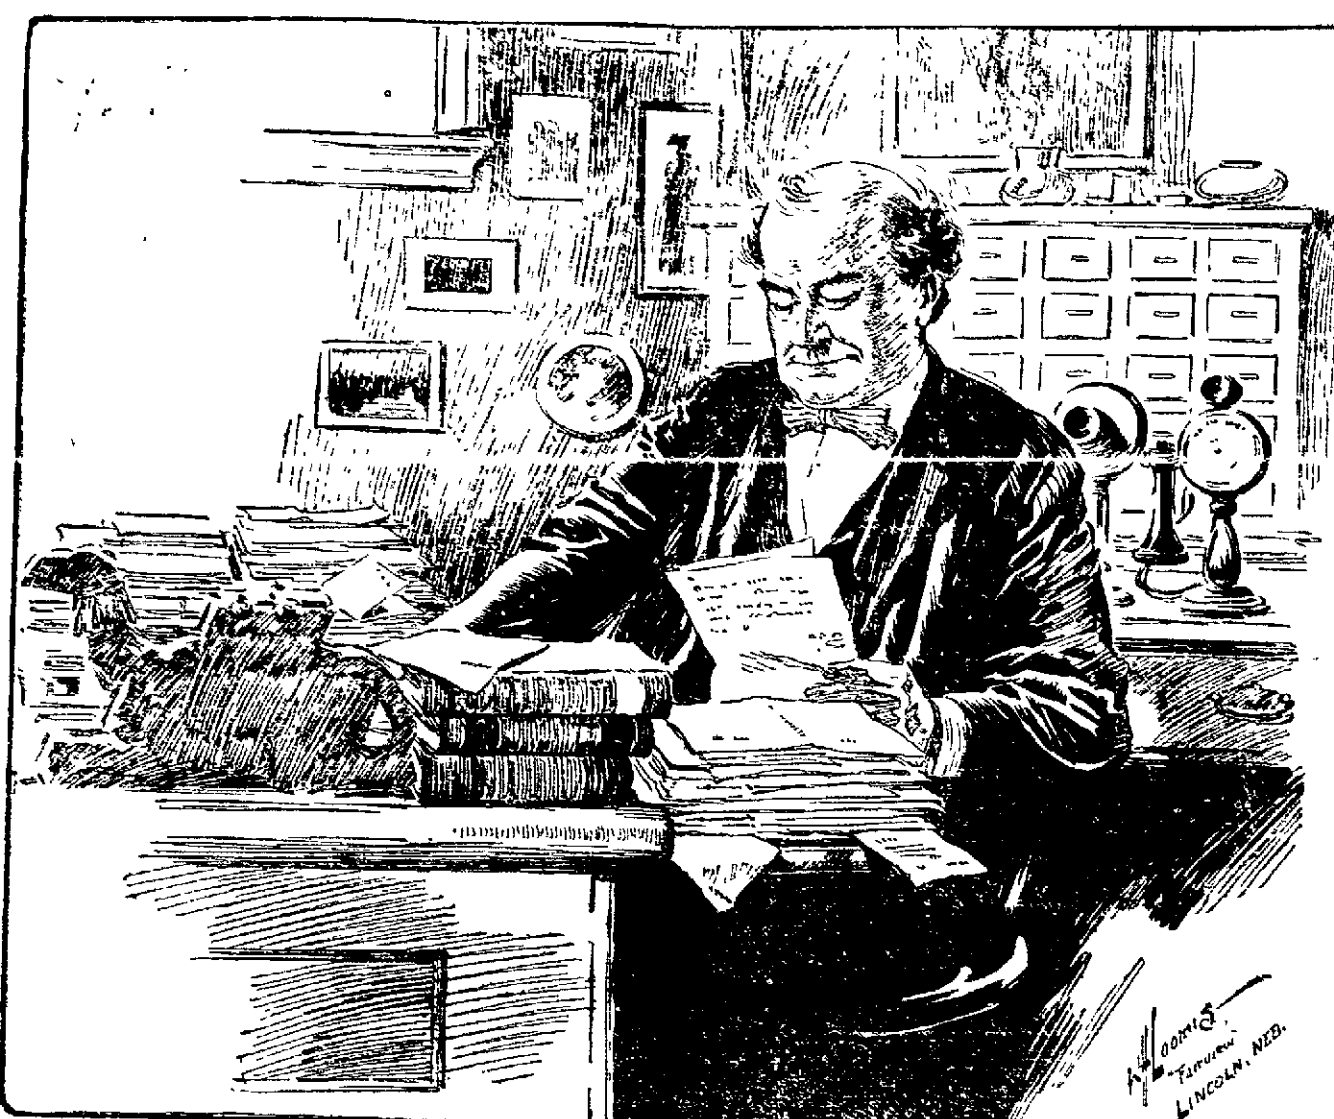

For years the city electrician of Chicago has been furnishing to the reporters copy about the city electric light plant—good copy that was wired all over the country and made the citizens of places that hadn't municipal plants think that they were being robbed by the lighting companies. He is still furnishing copy, but it isn't good copy for the M. O. press bureau. The other day Mayor Busse wrote a letter to the city council asking for an investigation of the plant, and immediately the city electrician began to see things. One of the things he saw after the letter had opened his eyes was that of the four stations only one was up to date. His previous blindness to this serious condition was due to the fact that it costs a lot of money to keep plants up to date, and such an expenditure might open the eyes of the taxpayers to the real cost of municipal lighting.

According to the Chicago Post, the city electrician stated further after reading the mayor's letter: "In fixing the actual cost of lighting one should consider the interest on the investment, depreciation, use of water, rent and like matters."

This is especially interesting because none of these items have been included in the cost of lights shown in the annual reports of his department for the simple reason that their inclusion would have made it impossible to give the impression that the cost of arcs was only $22 or $33 a year, as claimed therein. In view of the impending investigation the electrician admits that the cost is $76 and adds naively, "Undoubtedly a business man would make the figure even higher."

Most undoubtedly, for in 1900 Haskins & Sells, chartered accountants employed by the Reform club of New York, declared the cost to be $90.83, and in 1905 Marwick, Mitchell & Co., chartered accountants employed by the National Civic Federation, showed the cost to be $100.00.

EXPENSIVE CITY BUILDINGS.

Cheaper to Rent Larger Quarters in a Private Building Than to Run the Chicago City Hall.

Chicago is having a rather enlightening experience just now. While the old city hall is in process of demolition preparatory to the erection of a new building the city departments have been obliged to seek quarters in a modern office building. Now, the owner of an office building not only has to pay for maintenance and repairs and insurance and interest on investment, just as the city of Chicago does on all its public buildings, but he has also to pay taxes and water rates. These are items of considerable moment are included in the cost of running public buildings. And yet the Chicago departments find themselves able to rent commodious quarters in a private building, with more floor space than in the old city hall, for less money than it cost to run that building. The item of rent will now be less than it cost merely to light and heat the city hall.

The explanation of this remarkable condition, of course, lies in the fact that the private owner runs his building economically and efficiently at the lowest practicable cost. The city, on the other hand, is without the incentive of personal profit and runs its building on a lavish and loose scale. More men are hired than are necessary in order to have a long payroll for the politicians' benefit, and higher wages are paid than are necessary. The city's employees have the loafing habit and, feeling secure in their positions, have no interest in saving the city's money.

A comparison of our own great public building and the cost of running it with any of the better class office buildings of the city would beyond question show that Chicago has no monopoly of municipal extravagance in that direction. The worst of it is that the difficulty seems so hopeless. No remedy is in sight unless perchance it is the Des Moines or Galveston commission plan—Minneapolis Journal.

The People Want Service.

Under this heading the Buffalo News says editorially: "The watchword of wisdom in public service now is private ownership under public control. The fair measure of return in any department of the business of lighting, watering, transporting or heating a city is coming to be understood, and through statutes or commissions just rates of charges are being established and a reasonable quality of service exacted. All that the impossible ideal of public ownership could secure may be had, yet without losing from the assessors' book large property values for taxation and without loading the service with an army to do the work of political bosses at the same time that it is grossly incapable of rendering the duty for which it is paid."

"Under the public service principle business facility is given its ample field for exercise, penalties for bad service are severe enough to compel good service and the waste impossible to prevent in municipal departments is avoided. A great revenue is obtained from franchise taxes, and every body is happy except the little tin horn blower who toots for public ownership when a week's acquaintance with practical politics would strike him dumb."

WILL MEET AT NEWARK.

After a contest in which Circleville, Trenton, Chillicothe and Canal Winchester were also candidates, it has been decided to give the annual conference of the Southeast Ohio District of the United Brethren church to Newark. It will begin on September 2, Bishop J. S. Mills of Annapolis, Pa., will preside.

TAX AMENDMENT

Power to Classify Property the Only Remedy Found.

RESULTS OF SEVERAL ATTEMPTS

Present Ohio System Full of Impracticabilities Is the Verdict of Every Person and Commission That Has Investigated the Subject With a View to Remedying Existing Evils.

The uniform rule of taxation required by the state constitution adopted in 1851 never has been and never can be enforced according to its letter. This fact has been recognized by every person who has intelligently studied the subject with an unprejudiced mind. More than this, it has forced acknowledgement from many honest but prejudiced minds by the force of its truth.

Every person, organization and official tax commission set to the task of studying Ohio's system of state and local taxation, with the view of exposing its evils and discovering remedies for such evils, has reached an identical conclusion. The evils are the result of attempts to enforce an impracticable rule. The remedy is to classify property for taxation so that subjects in each class can be dealt with justly.

ANOTHER CLASSIFICATION AMENDMENT.

After the third failure in 1893, the year in which the tax commission appointed by Governor William McKinley made its report, no further effort was made to amend the constitution for ten years.

In 1902 the Ohio State Board of Commerce took up the work and succeeded in inducing the General Assembly to submit an amendment that was voted on in 1903. This proposed amendment provided for classification as follows:

"The General Assembly shall provide for the raising of revenue for all state and local purposes in such manner as it shall deem proper. The subjects of taxation for state and local purposes shall be classified, and the taxation shall be uniform on all subjects of the same class, and shall be just to the subject taxed."

This exhibit proves that the problem of securing the adoption of the pending taxation and other constitutional amendments will be successfully solved by the thoroughgoing organization of "The People's Campaign," now being organized by the Ohio State Board of Commerce to make it certain that every elector who casts a vote at the November election shall vote on the constitutional amendments. A failure to do this will be a calamity of the first magnitude for the people of Ohio and all those who are earning a living, operating a business or who own property in the state.

A SAILOR ROOK.

Story of Bird That Made Its Home on Shipboard.

Many years ago as the whaling ship Diana was returning from a voyage in the Arctic ocean her captain and crew were surprised one day to see a rook in a state of great exhaustion flutter into the rigging. The nearest land was more than 200 miles away, so such a visitor was quite unexpected.

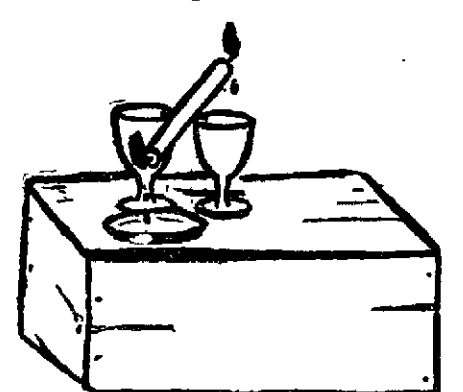

With great care and gentleness the bird was caught, and after receiving as much attention as any storm tossed traveler would require it was offered its liberty again. But, though thoroughly restored to health and vigor, it refused to leave the ship. With loud caws of contentment it would hop about the deck as though that were its real home, and when darkness settled down upon the ocean it retired into the rigging, there to roost as comfortably as any of its stay at home relations among their leafy clime. When the Shetland Islands were reached the captain of the Diana sent his feathered passenger on shore, naturally thinking that this would be in accordance with its wishes. But the next day, when the ship was forty miles farther on the route to Hull and land was quite out of sight, the sailors saw a dark speck in the sky which grew and grew till, to their astonishment and delight, the passenger they had left behind fluttered joyously on board, cawing its satisfaction at reaching home once more, if not reproving them for giving it the slip.

After that there was no more thought of parting, and this Columbus of the bird world became a great favorite with all on board. Sad to say, when the journey's end was reached at Hull the poor bird, which had found upon the stormy sea such sympathy and kindness, was attacked by a party of ignorant boys and killed.

A CANDLE MOTOR.

How to Perform a Simple and Interesting Experiment.

Here, boys and girls, is a new motor for you. Take a candle and make the experiment yourselves. Take two pins and, first heating them sufficiently to penetrate the candle, insert them in the center of the candle at right angles to the wick on opposite sides so that the projecting points will form an axis upon which the candle can move freely. Trim the ends of the candle and try it upon the edges of two globes until it balances perfectly. Now light both ends and place a small plate under each to catch the dripping. Now, as one end drips that side becomes lighter, and it goes up while the other drips, and it starts up, and so on. The candle will seewaw faster and faster until it is all consumed. Little paper manikins attached to either end add to the entertainment.

The Word Quaint.

This word three or four centuries ago had a most elastic signification. Now it means something odd or unusual, something out of the ordinary run of things. Then it meant almost anything you pleased to have it mean. For example, it was applied to things that were agreeable, elegant, clever, neat, trim, gracious, pretty, amiable, taking, affable, proper, spruce, happy, handsome, knowing, dandy, artful, cunning, genteel, prudent, wise, discreet. Perhaps no other word in the language was quite so comprehensive.

Questions and Answers.

Why should a man named Benny marry a girl called Annie? Because he would be Benny-ted and she would be Annie-mated.

What is the difference between a man looking upstairs and one going up? One is staring up steps, the other stepping upstairs.

Why have chickens no future to look forward to? Because they have their necks twisted (next world) in this.

Why is a lazy dog like a bill? Because he is a slow pup (slope up).

Why is a bee a great deceiver? Because he is a humbug.

Harry Eells' Molders licked the platter clean Sunday when the Down Staters from Portsmouth stacked up against them at Wehrle park Sunday afternoon. It can not be said that the game was an interesting one for it was too much of a Newark flavor to be exciting.

Harry Wright performed on the mound for the Night Riders and his work was bad, to say the least. Newark hit safely 15 times for a total of 21 bases. Each hit was made to count for what it was worth and the local boys grew dizzy circling the bases.

Despite the fact that the contest was void of interest, there were several spectacular plays which caused the thousands or twelve hundred bugs to sit up and take notice.

For instance Pitcher Moore made a great one hand stop of Murray's and with the exception of the fourth held them safe.

SNAPSHOT DURING WILTSE'S NO HIT GAME AT N. Y. POLO GROUNDS

KNABE OUT AT FIRST ON A CLOSE DECISION IN WILTSE'S NO HIT GAME

In the seventh Kellar, Wright and Totman singled in succession, but the next three men were easy outs and no one scored. The figures speak for themselves:

"BIG FRANK" MOORE.

His hitting and fielding in Sunday's game equalled his excellent pitching.

throw to catch Wolfe in the eighth at first. Scottie Winters fielded the grounder from Wolfe's bat but fumbled. Murray was close by and the picked up the sphere and heaved it to Moore.

The big pitcher reached the bag about a hair's breadth ahead of the runner and grabbed the ball which was going wild. Providence was with him and he caught his man. There was no doubt about the play and Wolfe never uttered a kick.

Moore stepped into the line light again with his long drive to the left field fence. He made it good for two bases and scored Wratten ahead of him.

Aside from his wildness the big pitcher was working nicely. He passed five men but tightened up when the visitors struck a batting streak.

WILTSE.

New York, July 6.—Let it be placed upon the records in large letters of gold that on the morning of the glorious Fourth at the Polo Ground in New York, George Wiltse, custodian of clever curves, pitched ten innings against the Philadelphia team without allowing a hit, thereby establishing a new world's record.

The score of the game was 1 to 0, while that of the afternoon game 9 to 3 in favor of the Giants.
Had it not been for the blindness or carelessness of a man named Rigler, who holds a position as umpire Wiltse would have stood head and shoulders above "Cy" Young of the Boston Americans. In the matter of pitching records, The thirtieth man at bat had two strikes on him and a third one, according to half a dozen men of cold, critical judgment, was as good a strike as ever whizzed over the corner of a home plate. But Rigler called it a ball, and the next one pitched hit the batter, letting him go to first. The next man up was an easy out, so that in ten innings only 31 men got to bat—just one more than the minimum.

The above dispatch says that George Wiltse holds the world's record for pitching ten straight innings without allowing a hit.

This was surpassed by "Lefty" Webb, of the Newark team, who pitched eleven straight innings on June 20 without allowing a hit.

"RED" CRAIG IS SIGNED BY O'DAY

Marion, July 6.—Pitcher Red Craig who is said to be a phenom, has accepted terms with the Marion club and will report within the next few days. O'Day has been trying to get Craig all season, and it is said that a money consideration was given the Marion, Ill., team for the pitcher. Up to this time the Diggers have had but four pitchers, while all the other clubs have five.

MANAGER PATTERSON IS RELEASED BY SHARON

Sharon, Pa., July 6.—Van Patterson has been given his release as manager of the Sharon, O. P. league team and third baseman Jack Callen will have temporary charge.

Secretary Clippard stated that the club is costing too much money and that Patterson was not in favor of getting the salary list down.

Patterson was suspended several days ago by President Morton and had not yet been reinstated. Patterson's release came as a surprise to the fans. An attempt was made to get the players to strike, but every one left for Akron tonight. Another manager will be chosen soon.

GOOD CROWDS LAST TWO DAYS

NEARLY 12,000 PEOPLE SAW THE OHIO STATE LEAGUES IN ACTION.

Mansfield and Marion Turn Out Best Crowds—Sunday Attendance Was Good.

Nearly 12,000 people paid admissions to see the Ohio State leagues play Saturday and Sunday. The attendance at Lima Saturday was 1800 in the two games. Mansfield and Marion played to 3700 at the two towns. Portsmouth turned out 1500 at the afternoon game, but the morning attendance wasn't worth counting. Sunday about 1200 saw the three games scheduled.

field and reformed his leg so that he was compelled to go way to Hatzell. In the American league averages printed Sunday Schweitzer still holds third place in the batting list. His percentage is 310 in 25 games. His fielding average is not so high for the reason that he got after everything in sight, and took chances that no other fielder would think of chasing.

ED ASHER WILL BE OUT MANY DAYS

It will be some time before Ed Asher will be able to pitch for Toledo, says the Toledo Blade. The fall he had in Milwaukee was one which injured a leg quite seriously. The pivot still is affected, and the strain of pitching will be a much for it for a good many days.

Luke E. Wright

Memphis' Yellow Fever Hero of 1878, Who Succeeds W. H. Taft as Secretary of War—Nearly Fought a Duel. First Governor General of the Philippines and First Ambassador to Japan.

By ROBERTUS LOVE.

LUKE E. WRIGHT, appointed by the president to succeed William H. Taft as secretary of war, is described as a Gold Democrat in a very brief and modest sketch in "Who's Who in America." In the official announcement of his appointment it is stated that "the president was influenced somewhat by the desire to recognize that there is no longer any dividing line between the north and the south."

Mr. Wright was a Confederate soldier in his boyhood. He enlisted at the age of fifteen and served through the war, coming out a lieutenant. His service was in a battery commanded by an uncle, in which Luke's elder brother, Eldridge, was also an officer. Eldridge Wright commanded one section of the battery at the fierce battle of Chickamauga. Luke Wright also commanded a section. During the battle an artillery sergeant who was an intimate of the Wrights ran up to Lieutenant Luke and said: "Your brother is killed."

"Send his body to the rear and get the near duel between Abraham Lincoln and Attorney General Shields of Illinois when those gentlemen crossed over to Missouri to fight with broadsword, Lincoln as the challenged party having chosen that style of death dealing weapon. Shields lived to be a famous general and a United States senator from three states in succession. Lincoln lived to admire him and make him a major general.

The parallel in the Wright-Galloway case goes almost as far, though in a humbler way, as to Colonel Galloway. The colonel became a devoted admirer of Luke Wright. There was a bitter fight in a convention to nominate a candidate for the office which was dignified by the title of attorney general for the criminal court of Memphis. A deadlock resulted. Arose Colonel Galloway, speaking as follows:

"Mr. Chairman—In the name of the peace and harmony of our party and in the name of a peace and harmony I prize high above this, a peace and harmony you all will understand, I arise to place in nomination the name of one whose ability and integrity cannot be error of Tennessee was Robert Love Taylor, now in the United States senate. "Governor Bob" appointed Mr. Turley to fill out the unexpired term of Senator Harris. That was in the summer of 1897. Two or three years before that date there was an issue in Tennessee which should be borne in mind in connection with Law Partner Turley's appointment to the senate in estimating the causes which operated to make Mr. Wright a favorite with the Republican administration.

A "Sky Blue."

Shortly after the civil war, when Tennessee had a legislature composed largely of negroes, a considerable debt was saddled upon the state by the voting of certain railroad bonds. Thirty years later this bonded debt became an issue that almost split the state in two for a time. There was a large faction which held that, inasmuch as the bonds were voted by an illiterate and corrupt legislature when most of the white citizens were disfranchised and whereas 30 cents on the dollar was about as much as the bonds cost the railroads, 30 cents was enough to pay. The other faction contended that the bonds should be paid dollar for dollar. The people to whom the bonds looked like 30 cents were called Regulars. The dollar for dollar folks were known as Sky Blues. Luke Wright was a Sky Blue.

After a fight in which blood was shed and the Democratic party was split open from Memphis to Murfreesboro and beyond the Regulars won, the compromise plan was adopted, and the Sky Blues faded out of the firmament.

Then along came the campaign of 1896. Bryan and free silver were in the saddle. The former Sky Blues used the repudiation scheme and victory of the Regulars as ground for bolting the national Democratic ticket. Mr. Wright and others became Gold Democrats and supported Palmer and Buckner.

McKinley became president the next March. In July Mr. Turley was appointed senator. Another year and the Philippine Islands came into American possession. When the Philippine commission was to be created, the president looked about him for a suitable man to appoint as the southern member thereof. Senator Turley was in favor of the administration. He hinted that his law partner, Luke Wright, was an available man. The administration rather liked the Sky Blues of Tennessee for their aid in defeating the Democratic ticket in 1896. This service was not forgotten. Mr. Wright accordingly was appointed on the Philippine commission, of which another man comparatively new to national politics, Judge William H. Taft of Cincinnati, was chairman.

So that, in brief, is the story of Mr. Wright's springing up into national importance. For the rest, it was up to Wright, and Wright made good. He had been a capable lawyer in Tennessee. In the Philippines his first duties were in connection with the legal aspect of the islands. He rendered high service in untangling a maze of local and international complications which would have taxed the patience of a demigod. He was so useful that a new office, that of vice governor, was created for him. When Governor Taft went to the Vatican to adjust the differences concerning the friars' lands Wright served as acting governor of the islands for several months.

Early in 1904 Governor Taft was called to the war department. Luke Wright succeeded him as governor, but with even a higher title than Mr. Taft had enjoyed. Mr. Wright became governor general of the Philippines, being the first man to hold that title.

Ambassador to Japan.

As ambassador general the Tennesseean served two years until his selection by the president to be the first American ambassador to Japan. He served a year as ambassador, then resigned and returned to Memphis and his law books. After only one year's respite he now takes up official duties again.

It has been popular since the president announced Mr. Wright's appointment to call him a Democrat. As mentioned, he opposed Bryan in 1896 on the money question and voted against him. In 1900 he was again in opposition to the Democracy on what was defined in the Kansas City platform as the paramount issue of the campaign—Imperialism. Mr. Wright, as a matter of course, stood for the Republican policy of expansion, so far as the Philippines are concerned, being a member of the administration's commission to govern those islands. Going much further back, it may be recalled that in 1876 and in 1884 Mr. Wright was a delegate to the Democratic national conventions. Thus he helped to nominate the only two Democrats who have been elected to the presidency since 1856—Tilden and Cleveland. Tilden didn't serve. But that's another narrative. Mr. Wright may be called a Cleveland Democrat, having advocated in the main the policies favored by the illustrious citizen who has just passed away. But there are Democrats who think that Grover Cleveland died a Republican.

Odd Use For Wedding Rings.

A handsome tabernacle of silver gilt has been erected in the chapel of the blessed sacrament in the new Roman Catholic cathedral at Westminster, London. For years past, in anticipation of this event, a lady who has done much for the cathedral has been collecting gold rings on which the inner curtains might hang. She has succeeded in persuading many of her friends and relatives to leave at death their wedding rings for this service. At the present moment the curtains of silk inside the tabernacle are supported by about fourteen golden rings which she has obtained, and on each of them the name of its donor is inscribed.

SHORT NEWS FROM OVER THE CIRCUIT

The left foul line early in the game but it stuck the chalk mark and Ump's Hart sent him back after he had rounded second.

Keller's hit in the fourth struck not more than two or three inches inside the foul line at third. It was a clean single.

Moore's good work was in evidence in the seventh when Keller, Wright and Totman each singled in rapid succession. The big pitcher tightened up however and the side was retired without a run.

Pitcher Koehl, who once spread ink on a Newark contract, performed nicely at Tiffin yesterday in a 10 inning affair. He fanned 15 Mansfield batters and won his own game by driving the ball over the fence. He has not lost a game this season.

A nice, lucky horse shoe lay on the ground near the first base coach's box during Sunday's game. Wonder if that had anything to do with that decisive winner.

First Baseman Spencer thought he was a candidate for the hospital ward when Scottie Winters landed on his foot on the dead run. He was real angry for a few moments, until he removed his shoe to find that Scottie's spike did not cut his foot.

OLD BALL PLAYER WAS JOE ATKINSON

Joe B. Atkinson of Pataskala, who was shot by his brother at Pataskala Friday, is an ex-bail player, and is well known in Newark. He played with several Pataskala teams and was a bright star on the O. S. U. ball team for several years. He played semi-professional ball with the old Shamrock team at Mt. Vernon several years ago, and was famous for his three base hits. He was an outfielder of rare ability, but prefers a business life to the excitement of the ball diamond.

MANSFIELD HAS HEAVY HITTERS

SIX MEMBERS OF TIGERS BATTING BETTER THAN .300 THIS FAIR.

Smith of Newark Shares Honors with Flood in Base Stealing. Pitching Averages.

Why Mansfield occupies a position so close to the bottom of the league race is a question none of the baseball experts are able to solve, as the list of leading batters of the league looks like a Mansfield batting order. Half a dozen of the Tigers are batting over .300. Though Doc Bailey, the Mansfield twirler, leads the league with an average of .366 in 17 games, the real leader is Channell, who is batting .358 in 66 games.

The average of the leading sluggers are:

| | G. | A. | R. | H. | Pct. |
|-----------------|----|-----|----|----|------|
| Bailey, Mans | 17 | 41 | 6 | 15 | .366 |
| Channell, Mans | 66 | 218 | 36 | 78 | .358 |
| Mattay, Mans | 41 | 152 | 19 | 48 | .333 |
| Ketter, Marion | 63 | 216 | 31 | 72 | .333 |
| Burke, Mans | 2 | 3 | 0 | 1 | .333 |
| Jewell, Mans | 70 | 274 | 37 | 91 | .332 |
| Kahl, Lima | 65 | 229 | 34 | 72 | .332 |
| Tate, Marion | 58 | 256 | 42 | 81 | .316 |
| Carter, Lanc | 65 | 266 | 28 | 81 | .305 |

| White, Lane | 18 | 63 | 7 | 19 | .302 |
| Gygh, Newark | 65 | 235 | 34 | 68 | .289 |
| Parrell, Marion | 68 | 257 | 45 | 74 | .288 |

Captain Kahl of Lima is the leading slugger with nine home runs, eight triples and 15 doubles. Wolfe of Portsmouth has 23 sacrifice hits and Flood of Mansfield and Smith of Newark are tied with 25 stolen bases.

WORK OF PITCHERS.

Though Wright of Portsmouth leads the league pitchers with three victories and no defeats, Pickett of Lima is the real leader, having won 10 out of 11 games in which he has worked. Brown of Marion, O'Day's new find, has won five of the six games in which he has worked and Wilmot, a veteran of last year's Marion team, has won 11 out of 15 games.

The records of the leading Ohio State league throwers are:

| | G. | A. | W. | L. | Pct. |
|--------------------|----|----|----|-------|------|
| Wright, Portsmouth | 3 | 3 | 0 | 1,000 | |
| Pickett, Lima | 11 | 10 | 1 | .909 | |

JUNE BUG WINS SILVER TROPHY.

THE JUNE BUG IN FLIGHT, JUST AFTER LEAVING THE GROUND.

Hammondsport, N. Y., July 6.—G. H. Curtiss' aeroplane June Bug won the Scientific American trophy, making a mile and better in one minute and forty-five seconds.

After waiting all day for favorable weather conditions, at 7 o'clock in the evening a dead calm brought the June Bug from cover. It was wheeled out on the track and presently the crowd heard the chug chug of the motor and the June Bug left the ground as gracefully as a bird. It made almost a straight line and flew the record distance and made the very limit of the fields. It landed easily without damage to itself or the operator.

The exhibition was witnessed by the entire Competition Committee, members of the Aero club of America, aeronautical enthusiasts from New York and Washington. Two moving picture men got very satisfactory views.

The cup which is given by the Scientific American through the Aero club of America, is valued at $2,500. It is now at the headquarters of the club in New York.

The best way to know Mapl-Flake is to use it. So we offer to buy the first package, to let the food itself show you how much you've missed. Let us do it now.

These are not good days for fad foods. Hot weather is the time for whole wheat. Wheat is the food of the ages. The time will never come when other cereals can take the place of wheat.

It is doubly important now, because it produces the minimum heat. And it gives the maximum nourishment.

Heat-producing foods, in summer, should be sparingly employed. At least one meal a day should be Mapl-Flake and fruit. Comfort and health demand it.

But wheat uncooked would be indigestible. And wheat half-cooked would only half digest.

The particles must be separated by a fierce heat so the digestive juices can get to them.

Else part of the wheat goes to waste. Worse than that, it ferments and causes digestive disorders.

Even mere economy requires that the wheat be prepared in the proper way.

So we spend 96 hours to make Mapl-Flake. It could be prepared, as some flakes are, in 18 or 20 hours.

We steam-cook the wheat for six hours. Then we cure it for days—a partial digestive process. Then we flake each separate berry so thin that the full heat of our ovens can attack every particle.

Then those thin flakes are toasted 30 minutes in a heat of 400 degrees.

And the wheat is cooked in pure maple syrup, to give it that enticing flavor. We want children to like best the food that is best for them. So do you.

So we make this perfect food more delicious than any inferior food. Those who eat it once never will go without it.

Mapl-Flake itself can tell you more than words can tell about it. So we ask you to try it, at our expense, rather than have you delay.

LUKE E. WRIGHT.

back to that gun. I'll work this one," replied the surviving brother.

Mr. Wright was born in Tennessee in 1847 and has lived there all his life, excepting when absent on official duty. His birthplace was Pulaski. His home is in Memphis, a city which he is said to have ruled in almost czarlike fashion, so large does he loom upon the local horizon. In 1878, when yellow fever scourged the city and about 15,000 persons died, Luke Wright was one of the men who remained in town. He practically took charge of affairs and was firm when most of the others wavered. He is still remembered in Memphis as the hero of 1878.

Secretary Wright is undoubtedly a true southerner. At an early age he married Miss Kate Semmes, whose father was Admiral Raphael Semmes, commander of the Confederate privateer Alabama, which was sunk by the Kearsorge, under Captain Winslow, off the coast of France in 1864. The Wrights had three sons in active service during the Spanish-American war.

Nearly Fought a Duel.

Not long after the civil war the future secretary challenged a fellow southerner to mortal combat. The duel was not fought, and thereby hangs a tale of present interest. In those "old, faroff, unhappy times and battles long ago" there was a veteran, Colonel M. C. Galloway, who edited a Memphis paper. The colonel was something of a fire eater. He addressed his editorial philippics chiefly against Judge Archibald Wright, chief justice of the Tennessee supreme court and father of Luke. Finally the younger Wright got fighting mad at Galloway for attacks on his father. Harvey M. Hill, who studied law with Luke in the office of Judge Wright, carried the son's challenge to the colonel. Of course the colonel accepted it.

Seconds, weapons, surgeons, time and place were chosen. Efforts were made by friends of both principals to avert the impending conflict. It was argued that Colonel Galloway, being so much older than his challenger, could refuse to meet the youth without dishonor, but the doughty colonel scorned the proposition to decline. With noble chivalry, however, he said:

"I will do as did the immortal Clay with Randolph—receive the fire of my young and impetuous adversary, then discharge my weapon into the air."

But, after all, only a few hours before the fatal meeting was to take place an amicable and satisfactory adjustment was made. It reminds one of questioned and whose courage, like his convictions, was never known to falter, a man in every way qualified for the office, and his name is Luke E. Wright."

Became Stanch Friends.

No sooner said than done. Luke Wright was nominated and elected. He was attorney general of the Memphis criminal court for eight years. By virtue of that title he has been "General" Wright ever since. The veteran Galloway, still hurling editorial philippics in those fiery days when carpetbaggism bossed the south, got into trouble with the federal authorities and was clapped into jail. Now came to the rescue his one time challenger, who after a fierce legal fight secured the release of Colonel Galloway. Until the colonel's death the two men were stanch friends.

Still another parallel is suggested. William H. Taft's father, like Wright's, was a noted jurist. The editor of a scurrilous Sunday sheet in Cincinnati attacked Judge Taft's character. "Big Bill" didn't challenge the editor. He lived north of the Ohio river, where the code duello was not so honored as in sunny Tennessee. Bill Taft met the editor on the street and thrashed him to a knockout drop.

It is of curious interest that the sons of these jurist fathers, both of whom were willing to risk life and limb in defense of their revered sires, have become closely associated in administrative affairs and that the one follows the other into high place. Mr. Wright succeeded Mr. Taft as civil governor of the Philippines when the Ohioan went to the head of the war department. Now the Tennesseean succeeds Taft in that office. It is also worthy of note that neither Taft nor Wright has been a politician in the ordinary sense. The only office for which Taft ever ran was that of judge of the superior court in Ohio, and at that time he already was judge by appointment. Wright never has been a candidate for any elective office save that of prosecutor in the Memphis court. The wider careers of both men have been based upon successive appointments to office because they made good.

Luke Wright returned to his law practice after his eight years' service as prosecutor. His partners were his father and Judge W. C. Folks, who had been on the state supreme bench. At the death of Judge Folks the vacancy in the firm was filled by Thomas B. Turley. When United States Senator Isham G. Harris died, the gov-

At Buckeye Lake Raided by Game Wardens—Gen. Speaks Will Break Up Practice.

Under the direction of General John C. For several weeks, General Speaks has been working upon a general plan of clearing the inland water regions of violators of the state game laws and the direct enemies of all good sportsmen.

During the last week, six deputies of the chief warden have been working at Buckeye Lake in a quiet, confidential way, with the result as follows. For months it has been known that poachers of this territory have been maintaining nets and selling fish as against the laws of the state.

GENTRY BROS. SHOW

Gentry Brothers shows arrived in the city Sunday morning from New Philadelphia, and the tents are located on the Y. M. C. A. grounds, where two performances will be given today, this afternoon at 2 o'clock and tonight at 8.

The street parade was given this morning at 11 o'clock and all the little folks were on hand to see the dogs and ponies in their dress regalia. Prancing ponies drew the little wagons and the proud old elephants wound up the procession.

Gentry Brothers are making their twentieth annual tour this season, and if reports are to be believed their shows are better than ever, many new features and acts having been added for this year's tour.

Gentry Brothers exhibition is a clean, moral and interesting entertainment, and one that can be attended with both profit and pleasure by old and young.

CAUGHT BIG CARP.

Mr. Thomas Murphy, the Village Smith, with Mr. Nels Anderson, had an exciting time with a huge German carp at Buckeye Lake recently. Mr. Murphy is quite a successful fisherman for sunfish, and after catching quite a string of these, put a craw-dad on the same rig that was used for catching the small fish. When out in deep water, an enormous fish grabbed it, and the battle was on. "Erin-go-brough", yells Murphy, "Nichts for stay," spluttered the German on the other end, as he dove for deeper water. The parties interested argued the matter for fully 20 minutes before they came to a complete understanding, the fish towing the boat around like a horse motor. Mr. Murphy finally got the leviathan in the boat, and when weighed a few hours later, turned somebody's scales at 25 pounds. This is probably the largest ever ever taken out of the waters of the lake.

AT BUCKEYE LAKE. Miss Edna Lejre, who is now doing the perilous Somersault of Death at Buckeye Lake park, now claims the distinction of being the only living woman who performs this thrilling feat, since the death of Stella Parker, who was doing the act in Pittsburgh last week and met her death in it last Thursday.

Miss Lejre is a charming little French woman of—well, she doesn't say how many summer, who was featured in the act with the Hagenbeck show last year. This summer she is making a few contracts with the more popular resorts, and came from Chicago to fill eight days engagement at Buckeye Lake park.

Sunday Miss Lejre made two trips in her auto, and she will continue with one performance each evening throughout the coming week and next Sunday. The attraction is a free feature and a half raiser. The act is a good one, well worth going miles to see. Its originality and daring coupled with the beauty of the little woman who makes the ride, puts the act among the top notch features.

SECRET OF SUCCESS

"Get something the people need. Then let the people know you've got it." That is the plain talk prescription for business success given by Mr. H. L. Kramer, the famous creator and advertiser of Cascarets, Candy Cathartics, which in a few years have developed sale of a million boxes a month. Every reader of this paper knows that the manufacturer of Cascarets have persistently used newspaper advertising to "let the people know" and the results have shown that Major Kramer "has something the people need." It is a good object lesson in the school of business.

ELECTRIC IRONING SAVES WEARY STEPS FROM STOVE TO BOARD

Ironing time isn't a session of uncontrollable merriment to the usual woman. Toiling all the blessed forenoon in a stuffy kitchen by a hot stove is no place for a woman's frail strength. It tires her for all day. It incapacitates her for other work. It strains her back and breaks her spirit. Why not emancipate yourself from such slavery by using an electric iron? With an Electric Flat Iron all you have to do is to attach the plug to any electric light socket that may be handy; and you may even take your ironing under the shade of a tree or on the porch. We will deliver one on trial. Call 237—both phones. The Licking Light and Power Co.
